HIGH WIND IN PETERSBURG

Smokestack to an Ice Factory Was Blown Down.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETBIRBURG, VA., May 23.—The exceedingly dry weather for the past three or four weeks is interfering with farming operations in this section. The storm last night will somewhat temperarily relieve the situation, but the rainfall was not anything like sufficient to break the drought. A very severe wind accompanied the rain in this city, and some damage was done. The smokestack at the factory of the J. B. Worth Ice Company, in this city, was blown down during the storm last night, and the loss of a few hundred dollars resulted. The storm broke over the city just as the authors was leaving the Stuart meeting it West Hill Warehouse, and probably low thousand people were drenched before they reached their homes.

Rev. Dr. George R. Stuart held a service this afternoon at 5 o'clock for the polored people. To-morrow night will be given up to men's service. Dr. Stuart will at that time preach a sermon to men buly.

architect, has thought out and drawn a scheme for improving the new resident areas of the city. The accompanying illustration presents his original conception of the most attractive and practicable manner of building up the outlying sections for comfort and sanitation.

The scheme is to utilize the rear of the building lots backing upon the public alley by converting this space into a grass plot or court, which will give air space and a pleasing outlook from the rear windows of the adjoining residences, which is generally most unattractive and dirty. This court can be used as a playground for children instead of the use of the street for this purpose, where they are in danger of injury by passing vehicles. As a further development of this scheme, a heating plant might be installed in the basement of a building located in the Dimmock, the well known a center of this court, from which source all the houses on the block could be heated at a greatly reduced cost from the present mode of heating the individual houses, and by this means relieve the work of the house servant in the attention and dirt of individual fires. The upper or ground floor of this boller house could be used as a pavilion in all seasons for the use of the children. This scheme can only be carried out by the mutual con

Maintaining of the grass court would be attended by but little cost, and by no cost at all to the owners of adjoining houses, providing the heating plant was installed, as the owner of this heating apparatus could well afford to keep the grounds in order, etc.

If the property owners in the Lee District or elsewhere, would combine and carry out such a scheme as illustrated, it would not only increase the value and attractiveness of their property, but would decrease the cost of living and minimize the insurance upon the houses by the heating from a central source, and in addition to all this add greatly to the beauty and healthfulness of our city.

FRENCH COACHING STALLION.

Dark brown horse, 16.2 hands high. Imported from France at a cost of $8,000, Winner of first prize at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1890 and again in 1891.

Javanais can truly be called a very superior specimen of a coach horse. In color he is a rich seal brown and his weight is upward of thirteen hundred. He has very powerful shoulders and thighs; hips and legs that are seldom equalled. His feet are perfection. While he is a rangy horse with elegant carriage of head, he is closely ribbed and has the roundness of barracteristic of this breed of horses. He is of a very gentle disposition, is a great walker and has showy, fine action while traveling. In harness he can show close to a three-minute gait. He was imported especially for breeding purposes. Although the owner would not hesitate to breed this horse to mares of any size, yet it might be well to note that the crossing of this horse with smaller mares will usually result in adding greatly to the size of their produce, it has been noted in the cross breeding of this breed of horses with ordinary mares, that the foals develop early and are well adapted for farming or other purposes where a combination of strength and staying powers for working purposes and use for driving are required.

"Javanais" is quartered at the DEEP RUN HUNT CLUB STABLES, in charge of J. R. RICHMOND, the manager, who will gladly show the horse and give full information as to fee.
